OUR DAILY THOUGHT.

Could We But Know.

Could we but know; ah! could we but know

The hearts that we have made to ache with pain.

By little thoughtiess deeds, we would 'refrain

From doing them again and we would

With tear-wet eyes and beg them to forgive. Ah! yes, our hearts would ever warm

Towards all mankind as long as w should live.

ENQUIRER ON ADVERTISING.

There is no newspaper, perhaps in the State, pursuing so independent an attitude as the Yorkville Enquirer. This newspaper never solicits advertising, and always carries a fine Une, getting good rates fc/ the space used. Seldom does this newspaper "talk talks on the advertising business as seen by Editor Grist:

All kinds of business are now undergoing a most serious depression. Because of this depression most people are trying to economize in every possible way, and as a measure of economy some are curtailing their advertising. In some cases they are undoubtedly right, and personally we have no complaint. We positively do not want anybody to advertise in The Enquirer unless they think it will be profitable. But this is a fact: If this depression is going to be permanent, then it is no use for anybody to advertise; but if it is to be only temporary, and that is what most of us hope people of South Carolina is an educa-tional one.

The Scripture reading was by Dr. J. F. Vines, pastor of the First Baptist church, while prayer was made by the Lev. Mr. Garrison, pastor of the A. R. P. church. Another inter-esting feature of the meeting was a violin solo by Mr. R. G. Cooper, director of the orchestra at The Andirector of the orehestra at The Anderson theatre. Mr. Cooper's talent is well known and appreciated throughout the city, in spite of the fact that he has been here but a short while. The address by Dr. Potent was masterful. In the outset he stated that the task confronting South Carolina today is an educational one. The second thought of the address was that the State needs better was that the State needs better schools or rather to improve on its methods of teaching. The third thought that the speaker advanced was that above all things the child is taught it should be taught to read.

It is regretted that time does not permit a synopsis of the masterful address being given for the benefit of those who were not so fortunate as to hear it.
